OUR STORY

WHERE IT ALL STARTED

OUR STORY BEGINS

Founded by former university teachers and support staff, our passion-driven story began in 2010 when we realised while many agencies offer assistance, a significant gap in post-arrival support remained unaddressed.

MORE THAN JUST AN AGENCY

This led to the creation of UK Bound, an educational consultancy committed to offering a complete service for students eager to study in the UK. A consultancy that keeps going where other agencies stop, armed with expert insider knowledge.

NEVER STOP GROWING

UK Bound is committed to creating a better future for our students. We are dedicated to constantly improving our services, aiming to provide nothing but the best. This is why we're pushing ourselves to grow every day.

SPOTTING THE MISSING PIECES

Many agencies do not offer active assistance in improving English and preparing for academic and personal life in the UK, often simply sending template documents. They tend to form self-interested partnerships with specific UK universities, leading to many students being mismatched.

GOING THE EXTRA MILE

While many agencies only offer support up until admissions, at UK Bound, we don't stop there. We go the extra mile to provide ongoing support and guidance, ensuring your success and well-being even after you've arrived in the UK including careers support.

ASSESSMENT

The first step is to assess your current levels, finding your strengths and weaknesses. We do this through scheduling a range of assessments by our experts. Starting with your personal consultant who will act as your administrative lead (and unofficial translator) who will discuss our service commitments, expectations, address any specific requirements and schedule your engagement.

You will then take a call with some of our native speaker experts. These are not tests but designed to judge your core abilities. The first assessor will check your English level following IELTS standards.

The next assessor will examine your academic understanding of your chosen field and discuss this with you at length (in English). This consultant will discuss your background, aims and field of interest. He will also gauge your understanding of living overseas and UK culture - this will help us plan our immersion programme.

Most of this assessment phase is simply getting to know you, and you getting to know us. It's a great chance to show us who you are and help us personalise your next steps.

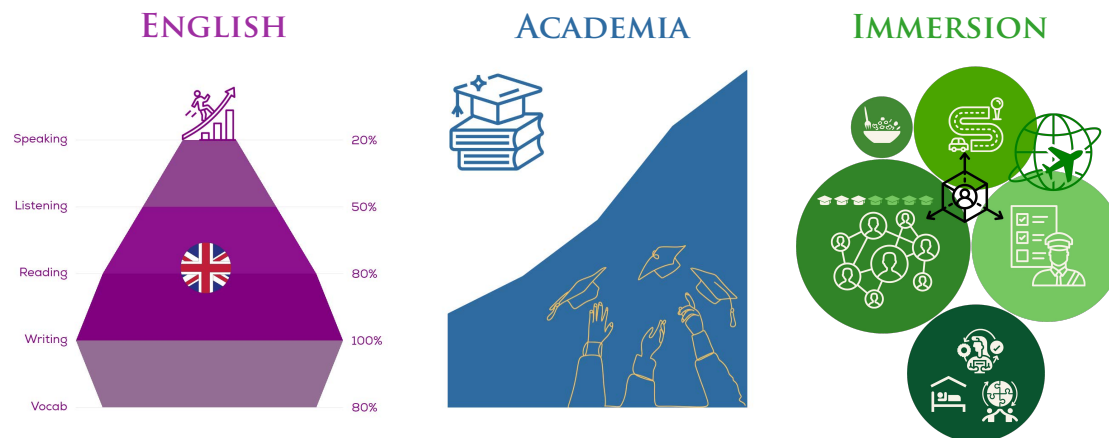

IMPROVEMENT PLAN

Our team will go through your assessment scores and feedback to create a personalised improvement plan and timeline.

The improvement plan will be designed to focus resources for the best chance possible to improve the most needed skills to help you get admitted to your primary choice. Classes will work on your personal input, ensuring two-way interaction as you would find in UK classrooms. Our experts will measure progress through a range of assessment methods and in one-on-one calls while offering you the choice to personalise the tutelage to best suit you.

Your personalised timeline will mark key dates and deadlines. For example, many universities will have a cut-off date for certain programmes but there will also be a variety of other tasks to work on such as visa prep, IELTS, scholarships and accommodation.

PREPARE

CONSIDER

When it comes preparing for studying in the UK, here are four important points to consider:

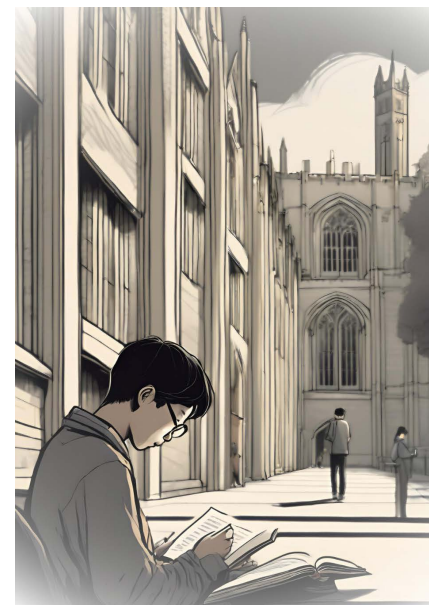

Firstly, it's essential to think about how studying abroad will impact your family and lifestyle. Discuss your plans with your loved ones and make sure you have their support. Consider factors like the cost of living, cultural differences, the distance from home and try address how best to reconcile each factor to optimise your journey abroad.

Your UK Bound Counsellor will help you research and choose the right location based on your personal preference and academic goals. Each city has its own unique vibe and opportunities. At UK Bound we often find many students already have an idea of where they wish to study, for example, you may have a friend or relative in a certain city or a certain area you're set on.

Carefully consider your choice of major. We'll help you look at the curriculum, faculty and career prospects related to your desired field. We'll get to know you and aim to align your choice with your interests and long-term goals.

Lastly, start planning what life will be like when you're in the UK. It's never too early to start thinking about what to pack. Consider the change in weather, what items make you feel at home and what you'll need for your course. There may be a specific place you've always wished to visit, or even a sports club you want to join. Think about what will smoothen the transition to a new and independant lifestyle.

Remember, these are just a few starting points and there's a lot more to explore and consider.

DOCUMENTS

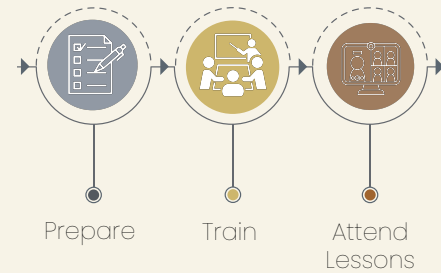

Preparing a whole range of documents for your university and visa applications can be tough work, especially when preparing everything else such as English language training and reading up on your major. Your personal UK Bound Counsellor will create a checklist based on your intended applications.

The Counsellor will discuss the exact format and range of documents you'll need then help by collating these into a bespoke portfolio to match the application's needs.

Getting your CV and Personal Statement right for each application is one of the most important steps - and you may only get one chance to get it right! You'll also need transcripts and academic records, English language evidence, passport and possibly others depending on your final application choice.

We understand the importance of presenting your best self on paper, and our team of experts can help you craft a compelling and polished application. Let us take the stress out of the process so you can focus on your dreams of studying in the UK.

TRAIN

ACADEMIC PREPARATION

We offer guidance on various aspects of academic communication, such as writing essays, delivering presentation and participating in discussions. We'll help you develop strong arguments, improve your critical thinking and refine your writing style. Our team of experienced educators will work closely with you to ensure that you feel confident expressing your ideas and engaging in intellectual conversations.

Our team is dedicated to providing personalised guidance and support to help you make the most of the student services available to you, whether it's module registration, accessing academic resources or finding support for well-being, we'll help tutor you on the best ways to get extra support during your study.

Additionally, we provide resources and workshops to help you navigate the nuances of UK academic discourse and conventions. From understanding citation styles to master academic vocabulary, we'll equip you with the tools you need to excel in your major.

Through various activities, workshops and engagement with natives, we'll help you explore British traditions and social norms. From navigating the transportation system, arranging accommodation to making friends with locals and network with current students and alumni.

We'll organise networking events with fellow international students who have successfully gone through the UK Bound programme and are now thriving in their academic and personal lives.

Having confidence in your new environment is important and will drastically improve your chances of making friends and succeeding in your studies and post-study work options.

You'll have the opportunity to share your perspectives, learn from your peers and develop a deeper understanding of the subject matter.

DECIDE

↳ APPLY

CHOOSING A UNIVERSITY AND MAJOR

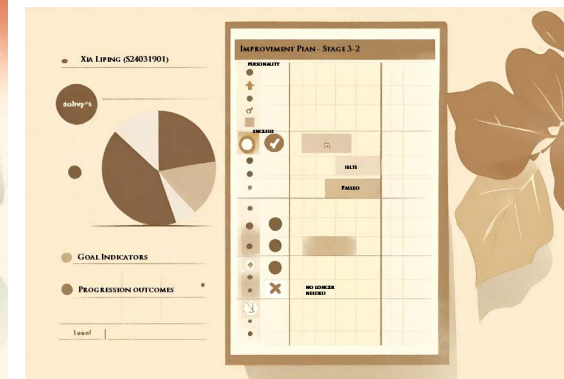

We'll talk to you from the very start about your options and where you'd like to apply to. Making a list of universities you'd like to apply is no easy job. Our experienced team will work closely with you and provide detailed information about various institutions and majors. We expect this conversation to last some months and to finally produce a list.

This will be your UK Bound Personal Decision Report, which takes into account factors such as the university's reputation, ranking and level of study, entry requirements, module choice, post-study work options, as well as campus life and a huge breakdown of other factors. We'll also help put together a list of available scholarships.

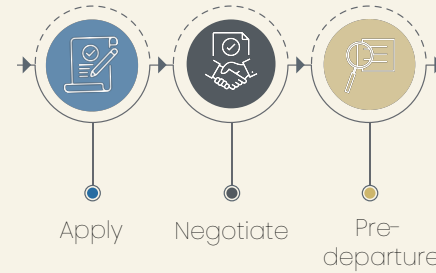

When you're ready and the university opens an intake, we can either make a representative application on your behalf or support you to make a direct application by yourself.

When applying to an undergraduate degree, you'll probably need to go through UCAS. All of our counsellors have received specialised training to help navigate this application process. Postgraduate degrees usually require a direct application through the university's admission portal - our experts will support every aspect of the application while guiding you on what the next steps will be.

Remember, this is just a glimpse of how UK Bound can assist you in making informed choices about universities and majors.

NEGOTIATE

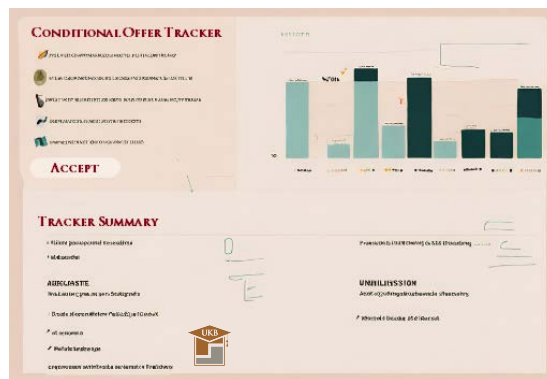

TRACK AND RESPOND

It's no hidden fact that universities actively compete with each other and very often this means when you apply, you may have a certain deadline to respond while your other applications are still pending. One university may provide a conditional offer (where you must first meet an additional condition, such as a higher English language score) while another offers an unconditional offer with a near cut-off date. This can sometimes force applicants to make hard decisions before they're ready.

UK Bound plan a roadmap on exactly when and how to apply so that you are best positioned to negotiate between your offers. We'll keep you informed about the progress of your applications, providing regular update on the status of offers. We have UCAS trained experts to navigate the UCAS track system so you are ready for every deadline.

We'll call to chat about every offer that comes through. Our experienced consultants will provide valuable insight and advice on how to respond and construct a calculated approach on which conditions you may wish to pursue. Our goal is to empower you to make the right decisions that will shape your academic journey.

GETTING AN OFFER

The wait can be long and anticipation may seem nerve-racking. When you finally receive an offer it can be a thrilling and overwhelming experience. It's important to act rationally, remain organised and to remember to communicate with all of your UK Bound support staff. By now, you'll probably have a favourite tutor or counsellor who will be happy to discuss the next steps.

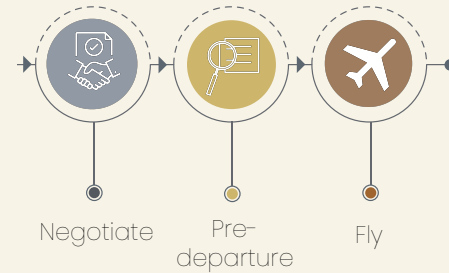

It's at this stage, many students make big mistakes. For example, some applicants may decide to accept two offers and even pay deposits for both. Each university would then produce a CAS, except the applicant wasn't aware that they can only hold one valid CAS at any given time. They may then find out later that their visa application is refused as the CAS was void and they'll now need to wait until next year.

Planning is key. We'll help prepare a step by step process of what to do and when. From paying the tuition fee deposit to receiving your Confirmation of Place (COP) and Confirmation of Acceptance for Study (CAS), and then preparing your visa application these months can fly by.

There are many steps to take after deciding on where you're going, so take a deep breath, stay organised and trust in the guidance of UK Bound. We're here to make sure you have a smooth and successful journey towards your academic future in the UK!

PRE-DEPARTURE

GETTING READY

As part of our services, we support the final preparation for departure to the UK. You'll need to think about your travel itinerary, passport and visa, and what to pack. Things like the weather, electrical adaptors and currency conversion are all factors we'll help you with.

It's important that this part of the journey is done with support, both from our counsellors and also with your friends and family. Saying goodbye can be tough, so it's wise to spend some quality time with them before you fly. You should also arrange how you'll stay in touch and consider registering for UK Bound's emergency contact service which will help alleviate any worry your family may have.

You'll also need to consider a change in lifestyle, such as diet, fitness and access to medication. If you take prescribed medicine, this is something you should liaise with your doctor until you can register with a GP in the UK.

Some students find after they arrive in the UK, they struggle with affairs they left back home. We suggest trying to tie-up any commitments so you can focus on your life in the UK. Leaving affairs in order (or at least having someone you can trust to manage them) is important to maintain order for when you return. Issues like receiving a verification SMS in your home country or accessing your bank online are key issues you'll need to arrange.

Remember, UK Bound is here to support you every step of the way, which is why we organise a final pre-departure webinar and supporting materials for all of our students.

OUR WEBINAR

Join UK Bound's exclusive pre-departure webinar, where we'll guide you through essential preparations, from visa requirements to cultural adjustment. Our expert team will provide valuable insights and personalised support to ensure a smooth transition to your chosen UK university.

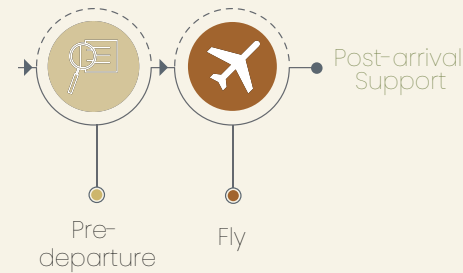

As part of the webinar, we'll go through the matriculation process, including what you need to do to complete registration after arrival. We'll check your visa and provide instructions on what you'll need to do at the UK border for customs and immigration control.

We'll go through transportation, food, networking, setting-up banks and a whole range of other topics while also providing a range of useful documents. We'll end with an open question period.

Don't miss out on this opportunity to kick-start your study abroad experience!
